ENACTMENTS, &c.

ACT ESTABLISHING THE UNIVERSITY.

[Passed January 25, 1819.]

1. Be it declared by the General Assembly of Virginia, That the conveyance of the lands and other property appertaining to the Central College in the county of Albemarle, which has been executed by the Proctor thereof, under authority of the subscribers and founders, to the President and Directors of the Literary Fund, is hereby accepted, for the use, and on the conditions in the said deed of conveyance expressed.

Conveyance of lands, &c. from central college in Albemarle, accepted.

2. And be it enacted, That there shall be established, on the site provided for the said college, an University, to be called, The University of Virginia ; that it shall be under the government of seven visitors to be appointed forthwith by the Governor, with the advice of Council, notifying thereof the persons so appointed, and prescribing to them a day for their first meeting at the said University, with supplementary instructions for procuring a meeting subsequently, in the event of failure at the time first appointed.

University of Virginia established on site provided for said college. Seven visitors to be appointed by Executive.

3. THE said visitors, or so many of them as, being a majority, shall attend, shall appoint a rector, of their own body, to preside at their meetings, and a secretary to record, attest, and preserve their proceedings, and shall proceed to examine into the state of the property conveyed as aforesaid ; shall make an inventory of the same, specifying the items whereof it consists ; shall notice the buildings and other improvements already made, and those which are in progress ; shall take measures for their completion, and for the addition of such others, from time to time, as may be necessary.

And empowered to appoint a rector and secretary. Other duties to be performed by them.

4. In the said University shall be taught the Latin, Greek and He-

Branches of science to be taught in the University. brew languages, French, Spanish, Italian, German and Anglo-Saxon, the different branches of mathematics, pure and physical ; natural philosophy ; the principles of agriculture ; chemistry ; mineralogy, including geology ; botany ; zoology ; anatomy ; medicine ; civil government ; political economy ; the law of nature and nations ; municipal law ; history ; ideology ; general grammar ; ethics ; rhetoric ; and belles lettres ; which branches of science shall be so distributed, and under so many professors, not exceeding ten, as the visitors shall think proper and expedient.

Number of professors.

Their compensation.

5. EACH professor shall be allowed the use of the apartments and accommodations provided for him, and those first employed, such standing salary as the visitors shall think proper and sufficient, and their successors such standing salary, not exceeding one thousand dollars, as the visitors shall think proper and sufficient, with such tuition fees from each student, as the visitors shall from time to time establish.

Powers of visitors.

6. THE said visitors shall be charged with the erection, preservation and repair of the buildings, the care of the grounds and appurtenances, and of the interests of the University generally : they shall have power to appoint a bursar, employ a proctor, and all other necessary agents ; to appoint and remove professors, two thirds of the whole number of visitors voting for the removal ; to prescribe their duties, and the course of education, in conformity with the law ; to establish rules for the government and discipline of the students, not contrary to the laws of the land ; to regulate the tuition fees, and the rent of the dormitories occupied ; to prescribe and control the duties and proceedings of all officers, servants and others, with respect to the buildings, lands, appurtenances and other property, and interests of the University ; to draw from the Literary Fund such monies as are by law charged on it for this institution ; and, in general, to direct and do all matters and things which, not being inconsistent with the laws of the land, to them shall seem most expedient, for promoting the purposes of the said institution ; which several functions they shall be free to exercise in the form of by-laws, rules, resolutions, orders, instructions, or otherwise, as they shall deem proper.

Their meetings, when and where to be held, and how constituted.

7. THEY shall have two stated meetings in every year ; to wit, on the first Mondays of April and October ; and occasional meetings at such other times as they shall appoint, or on a special call, with such notice as themselves shall prescribe by a general rule ; which meetings shall be at the University ; a majority of them constituting a quorum for business ; and on the death, resignation of a member, or failure to act for the space of one year, or on his removal out of the Commonwealth, or by the Governor, with the advice of Council, the Governor with like advice shall appoint a successor.

Vacancies among them to be supplied by Executive.

8. THE said rector and visitors shall be a body corporate ; under the style and title of The Rector and Visitors of the University of Virginia, with the right, as such, to use a common seal ; they shall have capacity to plead and be impleaded in all courts of justice, and in all cases interesting to the University, which may be subjects of legal cognizance and jurisdiction ; which pleas shall not abate by the determination of their office, but shall stand revived in the name of their successors ; and they shall be capable in law, and in trust for the University, of receiving subscriptions and donations real and personal, as well from bodies corporate, or persons associated, as from private individuals.

Rector and visitors to be a body corporate. Their powers as such.

9. AND the said rector and visitors shall, at all times, conform to such laws as the Legislature may, from time to time, think proper to enact for their government ; and the said University shall, in all things, and at all times, be subject to the control of the Legislature. And the said rector and visitors of the University of Virginia shall be, and they are hereby required to make report, annually, to the President & Directors of the Literary Fund, (to be laid before the Legislature at their next succeeding session,) embracing a full account of the disbursements, the funds on hand, and a general statement of the condition of the said University.

To be governed by laws enacted by Legislature, and in all things subject to its control. Reports to be made by them to President and Directors of the Literary Fund.

10. THE said board of visitors, or a majority thereof, by nomination of the board, shall, once in every year at least, visit the said University ; enquire into the proceedings and practices thereat ; examine the progress of the students, and give to those who excel in any branch of science, there taught, such honorary marks and testimonies of approbation as may encourage and excite to industry and emulation.

Majority of Visitors required to visit the University once a year at least. Their powers and duties on such occasions.

11. ON every twenty-ninth of February, or, if that be Sunday, then on the next, or earliest day thereafter, on which a meeting can be effected, the Governor and Council shall be in session, and shall appoint visitors of the said University, either the same or others, at their discretion, to serve until the twenty-ninth day of February next ensuing, duly, and timely notifying to them their appointment, and prescribing a day for their first meeting at the University ; after which, their meetings, stated and occasional, shall be as herein-before provided : Provided, That nothing in this act contained shall suspend the proceedings of the visitors of the said Central College of Alabarque ; but for the purpose of expediting the objects of said institution, they shall be authorised, under the control of the Governor and Council, to continue the exercise of their functions, and fulfil those of their successors, until the first actual meeting of their said successors.

Powers of visitors of central college, until first actual meeting of their successors.

SUBSEQUENT ACTS CONCERNING THE UNIVERSITY.

[Passed 15th February, 1823.]

Rector and Visitors of University, when to report.

1. Be it enacted, That the Rector and Visitors of the University of Virginia, shall hereafter make their annual report, to the President and Directors of the Literary Fund, on or before the first Monday in December in each year, to be laid before the General Assembly at the commencement of each session.

Regulation concerning visitors failing to perform duties of office.

2. Be it further enacted, That whensoever any Visitor of the said University, shall have failed to perform the duties of his office for twelve months, it shall be the duty of the board, at their next meeting after the expiration of the said twelve months, to enter such failure in the minutes of their proceedings ; and, if no sufficient cause for such failure be shewn to the board, they shall cause it to be certified to the executive, that the seat of such Visitor is vacated, in order that the vacancy may be supplied : But, if sufficient cause for such failure be shewn to the said board, at any time before they shall have certified the same to the executive as aforesaid, the seat of such Visitor shall not thereby be vacated. If, however, so many of the said Visitors shall, at any time, fail to perform duty for one whole year, as not to leave a quorum to form a board without them, it shall be the duty of the Rector to certify such failure to the executive ; and thereupon the seats of such Visitors shall be vacated, and the executive shall proceed to fill the vacancies.

[Passed March 7th, 1827.]

Be it enacted, That instead of the stated meetings of the Visitors of the University on the first Mondays in April and October, as heretofore prescribed by law, the stated meetings shall be held at such times, not less than once in each year, as the Visitors shall from time to time prescribe.*

Meeting of Visitors, when to be held.

[Passed March 8th, 1827.]

Be it enacted, That the Executive be, and they are hereby authorised to loan to any person who may be authorised by the Visitors of the University of Virginia to open a school of military instruction at the University, a number of muskets not exceeding one hundred : Provided, The said person shall give bond and security for the preservation and return of the said arms, when required by the Executive; the arms to be hereby loaned, to be of the smallest calibre.

Executive to lend arms for the use of the University.

[Passed January 9th, 1829.]

Be it enacted, That the Visitors of the University of Virginia, or a majority of them, at their future meetings, in the absence of the Rector, may appoint a Rector pro tempore; and the proceedings of the said Visitors and Rector so appointed, shall be as valid in all respects, as if the Rector was present.

Rector pro tempore authorised to be appointed.

which come to their knowledge, and to interpose to prevent any such offences in their presence. And it is the earnest request and recommendation of the Rector and Visitors, to the Faculty, that, so far as can be effected by their exertions, they cause the statutes and rules enacted for the government of the University to be exactly and strictly observed.

13. The Faculty may, at pleasure, call upon the Chairman for information touching any subject proper for their deliberations, and it will be his duty to communicate it, if in his power, or to assign to them the reasons which induce him to think that the interests of the University require that it should be withheld; but the Faculty can in no case proceed to punish or to try an offence, not brought before them by the Chairman.

May call upon the Chairman for information.

14. The Professors shall be permitted to occupy, rent free, a pavilion, each, with the grounds appropriated to it; they shall also receive, from the funds of the University, such compensation as shall have been stipulated by the agent, or fixed by the Board; and, from each student attending them, tuition fees as hereinafter declared. The Professors shall permit no waste to be committed in their tenements, and shall maintain the internals of their pavilions, and also the windows, doors, and locks, external, during their occupation, in as good repair and condition as they shall have received them.*

Their compensation, &c.

15. Each Professor shall be at liberty to occupy the dormitories adjoining his pavilion, or either of them; he paying the rent and making the repairs required of students occupying dormitories.

May occupy dormitories adjoining pavilions.

16. The Professors, Tutors, and all Officers of the University, shall reside constantly in the apartments of the University, or of its precincts, assigned to them.

Shall reside within the University.

17. The collegiate duties of a Professor, if discharged conscientiously, with industry and zeal, being sufficient to engross all his hours of business, he shall engage in no other pursuits of emolument unconnected with the service of the University, without the consent of the Visitors.

Shall engage in no other pursuits of emolument, without consent of Visitors.

Reduction of Professors' salary, from what time to operate.

Resignations of Professors, how made.

19. Whenever a reduction shall be made in the salary of any Professor, it shall operate only from the commencement of the session next after it shall have been made. And no Professor shall be at liberty to resign his office, without the leave of the Board, unless such resignation be made at the end of the session, and after at least three months' notice shall have been given, in writing, to the Rector, by the Professor, that he intends unconditionally to vacate his office at the end of the session.

Section 2.—Proctor.

Proctor shall give bond and security.

1. The Proctor shall give bond, with good security, in the penalty of ten thousand dollars, payable to the Rector and Visitors of the University, and conditioned for the performance of all the duties of his office.

Bond must be approved by the Board of Visitors—or by executive committee.

2. Such bond, given during the sitting of the Board of Visitors, must be approved by the Board ; and, given during their recess, must be approved by the Executive Committee, and their approbation endorsed on the back of the bond. When thus given and approved, it shall be filed by the Secretary with the papers of the Board, and carefully preserved.

Shall be valid, tho' not given conformably to the directions herein.

3. If any bond be given by the Proctor, otherwise than is herein provided, and delivered to the Visitors, their Secretary, or other agent ; and the Proctor afterwards actually proceed to execute the duties of his office, or any of them ; the bond shall be deemed good and valid to bind the Proctor and his surety or sureties, and their representatives, according to the legal import of the terms thereof ; though the Proctor himself, as soon as the variance of his bond from the requisitions of this enactment may be discovered, shall be removed from office, either by the Board, in session, or by the Executive Committee, in the recess of the Board, unless a proper bond be forthwith given.

4. Vacancies in the office of Proctor, occurring during the recess of the Board, may be filled by appointment under the hands and seals of the Executive Committee, subject to the approval or disapproval of the Board, at their ensuing meeting.

Vacancies in the office of Proctor, occurring in recess, how filled.

5. The Proctor shall be, ex officio, master of police, and inspector of the buildings, lands and other property of the University. He shall keep a constant superintendence over all the property ; and at least once a week, inspect all the dormitories, and once a month, all the hotels of the University ; and shall report to the Chairman of the Faculty, all injuries which he shall discover, with the name of the occupant of the property injured, and of the person, if known, who did the injury. The information so reported to the Chairman, shall be laid by him before the Faculty ; and they shall assess upon the occupant of the property, or upon the offender, if he be a student or other member of the University, such fine for the injury, not exceeding double the sum required to repair it, as they shall deem proper. The fine so assessed shall be collected by the Proctor, and accounted for by him to the Bursar.

Proctor's duties. Shall be master of police—Inspector of buildings, &c.

Shall report all injuries to dormitories, &c. to Chairman.

6. He shall cause the most scrupulous cleanliness to be preserved, in all the grounds and tenements of the University. He shall employ the laborers of the University in preserving the cleanliness of all the grounds and tenements not in the occupation of the Professors and Hotel-keepers,* in keeping the drains and gutters clean and in repair, in causing suitable depositories to be prepared for the reception of the sweepings and offal from the tenements of the Professors and Hotel-keepers, and in daily removing such sweepings and offal, when so deposited.

Shall cause cleanliness to be preserved.

7. The Proctor is charged with the duty, at all times, of preventing all violations of the laws of the University by students or others, of preventing trespasses and intrusions on the property of the University, real and personal, and of recovering its possession from any person who shall improperly withhold the same. To this end, he is required to be vigilant in observing all violations of the law, all trespasses and intrusions, and prompt in reporting them to the Chairman, —to lay before the civil authority, and communicate to the proper law officer, whenever required by the Chairman, such information as he may at any time have, and as may be calculated to prevent or punish breaches of the peace, trespasses and misdemeanors, within the precincts of the University ; and instantly to expel from the precincts all idle or suspicious intruders, who may be found lurking within them, without ostensible business and good cause.

all buildings.

8. The Proctor is also charged with the duty of superintending all buildings in progress for the University, and seeing that they are faithfully executed ; of making all contracts for the University authorised by their laws ; of settling accounts with contractors and undertakers, and drawing in their favor on the Bursar for monies due to them ; of hiring laborers for the University, within the limit allowed by the laws, and superintending and directing the employment of their labor ; of collecting and paying over to the Bursar all money due to the University from any with whom he shall have entered into contracts ; and of doing such other acts, as are now, or may be hereafter specially required of him, by other enactments or resolutions of the Visitors.

Shall issue his warrants to the Bursar, to receive monies due from students.

9. The Proctor shall issue his warrants to the Bursar, from time to time, to receive all monies due from students, Hotel-keepers and others, whether for rents, fines, assessments or otherwise, stating in each warrant, the exact amount to be received, and on what account of these accounts, embracing the transactions of the preceding year, shall be fairly copied and laid before the Visitors on the first day of each annual meeting of the Board.

Buildings and grounds to be assigned him.

Buildings and grounds for the accommodation of himself and family shall be assigned to the Proctor, from time to time, by the Executive Committee, free of rent, subject to the control of the Board ; he maintaining the buildings, grounds and inclosures in good repair, but not being answerable for the destruction of the buildings by unavoidable accidents from tempests or fire.

10. He shall receive a compensation for his services, of one thousand dollars per annum, payable quarterly, as the salaries of the other officers are paid. His compensation.

Section 3.—Patron.

1. A Patron of the Students of the University shall be hereafter appointed, for the purpose of receiving and administering the funds to be expended by them while at the University ; who, before he enters upon the duties of his office, shall give bond, with good security, in a penalty of twenty thousand dollars, payable to the Rector and Visitors of the University, conditioned well and truly to account for and pay to them entitled to receive it, all monies or other funds which may come to his hands by virtue or by colour of his office, and faithfully to discharge all the duties of his office. A Patron shall be appointed.

Who shall give bond and security.

2. Such bond shall be given, approved and preserved in like manner as the bond required from the Proctor, and shall, in like manner, be valid and binding, though not taken according to the requisitions of this enactment.* Bond, how given.

3. The Patron shall be appointed by the Board, or in their recess, by the Executive Committee, by writing under their hands and seals ; and vacancies occurring during the recess of the Board, may be filled by appointment under the hands and seals of the Executive Committee, subject to the approval or disapproval of the Board, at their ensuing meeting. The Patron, how appointed.

Vacancies during the recess of the Board, how filled.

4. He shall be the Patron of all students resident within the precincts, for the purpose of receiving and administering the funds to be expended by them, while at the University.† He shall be the Patron of all the students resident within the precincts.

* See p. 12—for the provisions on this subject relating to the bond of the Proctor, the same having been enacted in relation to that of the Patron.

† The enactments requiring the students to deposit their funds with the Patron, and prescribing the mode by which this regulation is to be enforced, will be found in Chapter 3.

Funds of the Students in his hands how administered.

5. All the funds of students, placed in his hands, or made subject to his control, in pursuance of this or any other enactment of the Visitors, shall be administered by him as herein provided, unless otherwise specially directed by the laws of the University.

He shall retain a commission of two per cent.

First. He shall retain out of such funds, a commission of two per cent, as a compensation for his services in administering them.

Upon the warrant of the Proctor shall pay to the Professors their tuition fees.

Second. Upon the warrant of the Proctor, he shall pay to the Professors whom each student shall desire to attend, their tuition fees, and deliver to the student the Professors' tickets of admission into their schools; shall pay to the Hotel-keepers, at the expiration of each month, what shall be due to them respectively for board, after deducting what they may owe for rent, or may be chargeable with on account of failure to repair their tenements, or on account of any other delinquency, and shall pay to the Bursar, on the warrant of the Proctor, the sums due from the students for the use of the dormitories and public rooms, the sums due from the Hotel-keepers for rent, and the sums due from the students and Hotel-keepers for other charges against them.

To the Hotel-keepers what is due for board.

To the Bursar the sums due for rent of Dormitories, &c.

Shall pay for all books, stationary, &c.

Third. He shall pay for all books and stationary, all articles of clothing, and other supplies contracted for by the students, within the limits of the funds placed in his hands for these purposes respectively, and according to the rules and regulations of this University:— provided, that no such payment shall be made, unless to the order of the student, endorsed upon a bill containing a distinct account of each item, and the price thereof, signed by the person to whom it is due.

On the order of the student.

Shall pay orders of the students on account of pocket money, but not in favor of students, unless sanctioned by Chairman.

Fourth. He shall pay the orders of the students, drawn upon him, from time to time, on account of pocket money; provided, such orders do not exceed at any time the amount in his hands deposited for that purpose; and do not, in any quarter of the session, exceed a due proportion of the amount allowed for pocket money for the whole session, by the laws of the University. But he shall pay no order from one student in favor of another, unless for the purchase of some article, the sale whereof has been authorised in writing, by the Chairman; nor shall he pay any order drawn by a student which he shall have reason to believe to be drawn in evasion of the enactments, until the payment thereof shall have been sanctioned by the Chairman.

Fifth. At the end of the session, or whenever the student shall be expelled or dismissed from the University, or shall withdraw from it by the leave of the Faculty, or die during the session, the Patron shall pay over to him, or his representative, parent or guardian, whatever balance may be in his hands to the credit of the student, after deducting therefrom all proper charges against him.

At the end of the session, or when the student shall be expelled, &c. shall pay over the balance in his hands.

6. From students not resident within the precincts of the University, the Patron, upon the warrant of the Proctor, shall receive all money to be paid by them for tuition fees, and the use of the public rooms, and the money required as a deposit to cover contingencies, with two per cent on the whole for the Patron's commission; and retaining his commission, shall pay the Professors' fees, shall pay to the Bursar, upon the warrant of the Proctor, what is due for the use of the public rooms, and shall pay the surplus, if any, to the student, his parent, guardian or representative.

Shall receive tuition fees, &c. and commission, from non-resident students.

7. When the Patron receives the money of any student, he shall give him a fair receipt therefor, specifying the several purposes to which it is to be applied, and the amount appropriated to each purpose; which receipt shall be deposited with the Proctor, to be by him carefully preserved; and, if the student desire it, the Patron shall, at the same time, give him a duplicate receipt for his own keeping.

Shall give the student a receipt.

8. He shall keep regular books, in which shall be entered fair accounts of all his receipts and disbursements, and for every disbursement he shall take and preserve an authentic voucher.

To be deposited with the Proctor.

Shall keep accounts of receipts, &c.

9. He shall, under no circumstances, mingle the funds received by him as Patron, with the funds held by him in his own or any other right; but he shall preserve them so distinct and so designated, that they may, at all times, be ascertained and applied to the purposes for which they may have been received. To further this purpose, and the more effectually to guard against accidents, he is required to open an account in the Bank of Virginia, at Richmond, in the name of the 'Patron of the students of the University of Virginia,' and without delay to deposit to the credit of that account, all money and all other funds received by him as Patron, which are not to be immediately disbursed. The funds so deposited shall be disbursed by checks drawn by the Patron, for the time being, and payable to order.

Shall not mingle funds received as Patron with other funds.

Shall open an account in the Bank of Virginia.

His accounts and vouchers subject to the inspection of the Chairman, &c.

10. His accounts and vouchers shall be, at all times, subject to the inspection of the Chairman of the Faculty, and the Executive Committee ; shall be regularly exhibited to the Chairman for inspection at the end of each month, and shall be laid before the Faculty and the Visitors, whenever required. On the first day of each annual meeting of the Visitors, he shall lay before them a fair statement of his accounts of the preceding year, and at the end of each session, he shall furnish to the parent or guardian of the student, a fair copy of his account.

Proceedings in case of default.

11. If the Chairman of the Faculty perceive that the Patron is in default, in any respect, in the administration of the funds committed to his care, he shall forthwith report the default to the Executive Committee, and to the Faculty, in order that the proper correctives may be applied. And if the Executive Committee find that he hath improperly converted to his own use any funds entrusted to him as Patron, or mingled such funds with his own, or with the funds of others, or retained in his own hands what he ought to have deposited in Bank, he shall be removed from office.

Penalty for unauthorised disbursements

12. If the Patron, in disbursing the funds of the students, shall pay for any article of merchandise, or for any supplies not warranted by the laws and regulations of the University ; or shall, in any other manner, disburse them, or any part of them, contrary to the provisions of the foregoing, or any other enactment of the University ; besides being liable to an action on his official bond, he shall pay to the Bursar, for the benefit of the University, a fine not exceeding double the amount of the improper disbursement, to be assessed by the Faculty ; and if he shall neglect or violate any other duty prescribed to him by the laws of the University, besides being liable to an action on his bond, he shall pay to the Bursar, for the benefit of the University, a fine not exceeding twenty dollars for any one offence, to be assessed by the Faculty.

And for violation of any other duty.

The Patron shall be assistant to the Proctor.

13. The Patron shall be assistant to the Proctor in enforcing the police of the institution, so far as to aid when called on in preventing all breaches of the law, and bringing the offenders to punishment ; and so far as to report to the Proctor all breaches of the law, by students or others, which shall come to his knowledge. He shall, moreover, when called upon by the Proctor, aid him in making estimates and contracts for building and repairs, and in settling the accounts of contractors and undertakers.

14. The Patron shall reside within the precincts, and shall be allowed to occupy the buildings and grounds now occupied by the Proctor, free of rent; he maintaining the buildings, grounds and inclosures, in good repair, but not being answerable for the destruction of the buildings by unavoidable accidents from tempest or fire.

15. The Patron shall be authorised to keep a book-store within the precincts of the University ; and a suitable apartment shall be assigned him for that purpose by the Executive Committee, rent free, he maintaining the repairs thereof, but not being answerable for unavoidable accidents by fire or tempest ; provided, that he shall keep on hand a constant supply of the text books required in the University, and shall furnish them to such students as desire to purchase of him, of good quality, at reasonable prices, to be judged of by the Faculty, and not exceeding, in any case, fifteen per cent. advance upon costs ; and to enable the Faculty to judge of the prices, his invoices shall be laid before them.

Section 4.—Hotel-Keepers.

1. Hotel-keepers shall be appointed by the Proctor, with the approval of the Board, while sitting, or of the Executive Committee. The appointment shall be in writing, under the hand and seal of the Proctor, in the following form.

I, A. B., Proctor of the University of Virginia, by and with the consent and approbation of the Board of Visitors, (or Executive Committee) have appointed, and do hereby constitute and appoint, C. D. a Hotel-keeper in the said University ; charged with the occupation and conduct of hotel No. in the eastern (or western) range of buildings, and of the dormitories and grounds with their appurtenances, which are, or shall be, assigned thereunto.

with the cleanliness, police and good order of hotel, &c.

5. The Hotel-keepers shall be assistant to the Proctor, in maintaining the police and good order of the University ; and they are enjoined to be diligent in discharging this duty. It shall be particularly their duty, to aid him, when called on, in suppressing any disorder or riot within the precincts ; and to report to him all offences against the enactments, and all circumstances which may tend to a discovery thereof, which come to their knowledge, whether they be called upon or not. They shall, moreover, at least once a week, if required by the Proctor, visit the rooms of the students, in the morning, and report to him all violations of the law regarding early rising.

Shall be assistant to the Proctor in maintaining police.

Shall visit rooms of students in the morning.

6. Whenever called upon by the Faculty, the Hotel-keepers shall give testimony upon honor, touching any matter of enquiry before the Faculty.

Shall give testimony, &c.

7. No Hotel-keeper shall furnish any entertainment in his tenement, for pay or compensation of any kind, to one who is not a student of, or attached to, the University, or a member of his own family. Nor shall he entertain in his hotel, or within the precincts, any expelled student, for the term of five years after such expulsion, or any dismissed or suspended student during the continuance of such dismission or suspension. Nor shall he permit his tenement, or any part of it, to be used for any other than the purposes of a boarding-house. Nor shall he suffer any game of chance to be played ; or any ardent spirits or wine, mixed or unmixed, to be drunk within his tenement : but nothing herein contained, shall be construed to prohibit the moderate use of wine or ardent spirits, by the members of the family of the Hotel-keeper and his invited guests.

Shall not furnish any entertainment, for pay, to any one not a student, &c. nor entertain any expelled student, &c.

Nor permit his tenement to be used, except as a boarding-house. Nor suffer games of chance to be played, nor ardent spirits to be drunk.

8. For any breach of his duty, prescribed by the foregoing, or any other law or regulation of the University, he may be fined by the Faculty in a sum not exceeding five dollars, for each offence, in addition to any other penalty imposed by law.

Hours of lecture from the last of April to end of session.

18. From the last of April till the end of the session, the lectures shall commence at half after five in the morning, and continue till half after seven. Then allowing half an hour for breakfast, shall commence at eight, and continue in regular succession, each occupying two hours, till two o'clock in the afternoon. But the days for lectures in the several schools, and the order in which they will succeed each other, shall be as above prescribed.

19. The hours of lecture thus prescribed, shall be carefully observed, as far as is found practicable; and the Chairman is requested to cause the bell to be rung precisely at the time appointed, for the commencement of each lecture.

Hours of lecture to be carefully observed.

20. The hours of lecture for the class of Anatomy and Surgery, and the extra hours of lecture, found convenient in the several schools, must remain subject to the arrangement of the Professors, under the control of the Faculty, till the Board shall otherwise order.

Hours of the class of Anatomy and Surgery, and extra hours, to be under control of the Professors, &c.

21. At the hour appointed for the meeting of every school, the roll of the school shall be called over, the absentees, and those appearing tardily, shall be noted; and if no sufficient cause be offered at the rising of the school, to the satisfaction of the Professor, the notation shall stand confirmed, and shall be given in to the Chairman in the weekly report. He shall, on the first day of every month during the session, or as soon after each of those days as may be, transmit by mail a list of these notations, to the parent or guardian of each delinquent.

Roll to be called at the hour of meeting of every school.

Chairman to send monthly circulars to parents, &c.

22. In each of these schools, instruction shall be communicated by lessons or lectures, examinations and exercises, as shall be best adapted to the nature of the science, and number of the school; and exercises shall be prescribed to employ the vacant days and hours.

Instruction how to be communicated.

23. In every course of lectures, it shall be the duty of the Professor, immediately previous to the delivery of a new lecture, to examine his class thoroughly, on the subjects of the preceding lecture.

Class to be examined on previous lecture.

24. It shall be the duty of the Professors of the University, to prescribe to the students, in their respective classes, frequent and regular themes, adapted to their previous acquirements, and calculated to develop and strengthen their mental faculties.

Themes to be prescribed by Professors.

25. It shall constitute part of the duties of each Professor, to hand in to the Chairman of the Faculty, at the end of each week, a report, exhibiting for the week preceding, the days and the subjects of lecture and of examination, the time occupied in each respectively, the presence or absence of each member of the class, and the degree, of attention and proficiency of the students.

Professors to make weekly reports to the Chairman.

26. The following formula shall be observed in the weekly class reports of the Professors of the University.

WEEKLY CLASS REPORT.

§ Here an 'α' indicating the absence of those not present.

27. It shall be the duty of the Chairman, to prepare and lay before the Visitors, at the commencement of every annual meeting of the Board in July, a consolidated report, founded on the weekly class reports. The said consolidated report shall be divided into three distinct and separate parts, as follows :

Chairman to make to the Visitors a consolidated report.

Divisions of consolidated report.

Part I. A concise and clear statement of the heads of the lectures, or subjects of instruction, delivered or taught by each of the Professors during the preceding course.

Part II. A statement of, 1. The number of times which any Professor shall have failed to lecture on the regular days appointed for his lecture. 2. The number of times which any Professor shall have failed to examine his class on the days appointed for such examination. 3. The average time occupied by each Professor in the delivery of his lectures. 4. The average time occupied by each Professor, in the examination of his classes. 5. The number of times that each Professor shall have failed promptly to make his weekly class report, as required by the enactments.

Part III. A statement of the number of times which the students may have been absent from lecture or examination ; and of their different degrees of attention and proficiency in their respective classes.

28. The Visitors of the University shall be free, severally or together, to attend occasionally any school during its session, as inspectors and judges of the mode in which it is conducted.

Visitors may attend any school, as inspectors and judges.

29. Should the religious sects of this State, or any of them, according to the invitation held out to them, establish within, or adjacent to the precincts of the University, schools of instruction in the religion of their sect, the students of the University will be free, and expected to attend religious worship at the establishment of their respective sects, in the morning, and in time to meet their school in the University at its stated hour.

If religious sects establish schools of instruction, students expected to attend religious worship.

30. The students of such religious schools, if they attend any school of the University, shall be considered as students of the University, subject to the same regulations, and entitled to the same rights and privileges.

Students of such schools attending University considered as students.

31. The sessions of the University shall commence on the tenth of September, and terminate on the twentieth of July ensuing.

Commencement and termination of session.

Section 2.—Matriculation, &c.

Students of other seminaries, on what terms admitted.

1. No person who has been a student at any other incorporated seminary, shall be received at this University, but on producing a certificate from such seminary, or other satisfactory evidence to the Faculty, with respect to his general good conduct.

No student received under sixteen years of age.

2. No student shall be received under sixteen years old, rigorously proved ; provided, that in case of application for admission into the University being made by two brothers, one of whom may be under sixteen years of age, the requisition of this enactment shall not be insisted on, if, in the opinion of the Faculty, having due regard to the special circumstances of each case, it would be safe and proper to dispense with it.

Except in case of two brothers, one of whom is under sixteen.

3. No student shall be admitted into the Mathematical school, or that of Natural Philosophy, who is not an adept in all the branches of numerical arithmetic ; and none into the school of Ancient Languages, unless qualified, in the judgment of the Professor, to commence reading the higher Latin classics ; nor to receive instruction in Greek, unless qualified in the same degree in that language.

Qualifications for admission into the schools of Mathematics, & Natural Philosophy.

Student free to attend the schools of his choice ; but if under 21, shall attend at least three Professors.

4. Every student shall be free to attend the schools of his choice, and no other than he chooses ; provided, nevertheless, that every student under the age of twenty one years, shall attend at least three Professors, or two Professors and the Demonstrator of Anatomy and Surgery, unless, when he matriculates, his parent or guardian shall prescribe in writing the schools which he is required to attend, or unless the Faculty, for good cause shewn, shall allow him to attend less than three.

No student to enter for less than the whole session.

5. No one shall enter as a student of the University, either at the beginning or during the progress of the session, but as for the whole session, ending on the 20th day of July, and paying as for the whole, except for board.*

Student to be furnished copy of laws.

6. Before any student shall matriculate, he shall be furnished with a copy of the laws of the University, and shall carefully read them.

Shall sign his name in a book.

7. On matriculating, he shall sign his name in a book to be kept for that purpose, by the Proctor, in which shall be stated the name and residence of his father or guardian. The names of the resident and non-resident students shall be written under different captions. Those of the resident students, under a caption in these words:

8. "After having carefully read the laws of the University of Virginia, I subscribe myself a student thereof: I enter the University with a sincere desire to reap the benefits of its instruction, and with a determined resolution to conform to its laws; I declare that I have deposited with the Patron all the funds in my possession, or under my control, according to the obvious spirit and meaning of the enactments on that subject.* In testimony whereof, I hereunto subscribe my name."

Caption for resident students.

9. Those of non-resident students shall be subscribed under a caption in the same words, with the omission of the declaration relative to the deposit.

For non-residents.

10. These captions shall be plainly and distinctly read to the student, or read by him, before he subscribes his name.

11. The copy of the laws furnished the student at the commencement of the session, shall be carefully preserved by him, as long as he continues a student.

Copy of laws to be preserved.

Section 3.—Examinations and Degrees.

1. There shall be two public examinations of all the students of the University, in each session; the first, or intermediate, to be held at such convenient time near the middle of the session, as the Faculty shall appoint, but to be so regulated, as to prevent a general suspension of the lectures during its continuance; the final, to precede the summer vacation, and to commence on the tenth day of July.†

Examinations, when held.

2. From these examinations, no student shall absent himself, without leave of the Faculty, under pain of any punishment not exceeding dismissal from the University.

3. In conferring degrees, and granting certificates of proficiency,

* In Chapter 4, will be found the enactments requiring resident students, in order to matriculation, previously to deposit their funds with the Patron, and directing the mode by which the observance of this regulation is to be enforced.

the Faculty will keep steadily in view, the necessity of making these honorary distinctions, evidences of real merit, and a reward for the acquirements of persevering diligence.

Degrees, &c. shall be the reward of diligence and merit.

4. Any student who shall, on examination, give satisfactory evidence of his proficiency in any of the schools of the University, Faculty, with the approbation of the Visitors.

1. The Chairman of the Faculty shall appoint, for the examination of each school, a Committee, consisting of the Professor of that school, and of two other Professors.

2. The Professor shall prepare, in writing, a series of questions to be proposed to his class at their examination, and to these questions he shall affix numerical values, according to the estimate he shall form of their relative difficulty, the highest number not exceeding one hundred. The list thus prepared, shall be submitted to the Committee for their approbation. In the schools of languages, subjects may also be selected for oral examination.

3. The times of examination for the several schools shall be appointed by the Chairman.

4. At the hour appointed, the students of the class to be examined, shall take their places in the lecture room, provided with pens, ink and paper. The written questions shall then, for the first time, be presented to them, and they shall be required to give the answers in writing, with their names subscribed.

5. A majority of the Committee shall always be present, during the examination; and they shall see that the students keep perfect silence, do not leave their seats, and have no communication with one another or with other persons. When, in the judgment of the Committee, sufficient time has been allowed for preparing the answers, the examination shall be closed, and all the answers handed in.

6. The Professor shall then carefully examine and compare all the answers, and shall prepare a report, in which he shall mark, numerically, the value which he attaches to each; the highest number for any answer, being that which had before been fixed upon as the value of the corresponding question. For the oral examinations, the values shall be marked, at the time, by the Professor, with the approbation of the Committee; but the number attached to any exercise of this kind, shall not exceed twenty.

7. This report shall be submitted to the Committee, and, if approved by them, shall be laid before the Faculty, together with all the papers connected with it, which are to be preserved in the archives of the University.

8. If the Professor of a school shall be discontented with any measure of the other members of the Committee, respecting his examination, he may take an appeal to the Faculty, whose decision shall be conclusive.

9. The students shall then be arranged into three separate divisions, according to the merit of their examinations, as determined by the following method. The numerical values attached to all the questions are to be added together, and also the values of all the answers given by each student. If this last number exceeds three-fourths of the first, the student shall be ranked in the first division; if it be less than three-fourths, and more than one-fourth, in the second; if less than one-fourth, in the third.

10. On the last day of the session, all the students of the University shall be assembled in the Rotunda, when the public shall be invited to witness the results of the examinations. The business of the day shall be arranged and conducted by the Chairman, who shall preside on the occasion.

On this occasion, addresses shall be delivered, and essays read by the students, the whole number not to exceed six. The speakers and writers shall be chosen by the Chairman, and their compositions shall be submitted to him for his approbation.

On this day, also, certificates and diplomas shall be delivered to the graduates; and in general, such business transacted, and such communications made, as may be considered appropriate to the occasion, and of general interest.

may, on a vote of the Faculty, be declared a graduate in that school.

5. Any student who shall exhibit his proficiency in the studies of the following portions of schools, may, in like manner, be declared a graduate of such portion : Pure Mathematics ; Chemistry ; Moral Philosophy.*

6. In those schools in which, according to the regulations of the University, there are different branches of study, which may be attended separately, a certificate of proficiency may, on a vote of the Faculty, be given to any student, who shall, on examination, give satisfactory evidence of a competent acquaintance with any of those branches : provided, that to obtain a certificate in any language, the student must shew his knowledge of the literature of that language, and of the geography and history of the countries in which it was used. But in all cases, to obtain a diploma, or a certificate of proficiency, the candidate must give the Faculty satisfactory proof of his ability to write the English language correctly.

Certificate of proficiency, when to be granted.

Candidate for degrees must be able to write the English Language correctly.

7. The graduate in the school of Medicine, shall have the title of Doctor of Medicine.

Title of M. D. to the graduate in the school of Medicine.

8. The Faculty shall be empowered to confer an additional and higher degree, with the title to the possessor, of "MASTER OF ARTS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA ;" and graduation in the departments of Ancient Languages, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, and Moral Philosophy, shall entitle the student to receive this honor ; but such degree is not to interfere with the power of graduation in the separate schools, as already established.

Section 4.—Gymnastic and other exercises.

A military instructor to be provided.

1. A military instructor shall be provided at the expense of the University, to be appointed by the Faculty, who shall attend on every Saturday, from half after one o'clock to half after three, P. M. and shall instruct the students in the manual exercise, in field evolutions, manœuvres, and encampments. The students shall attend these exercises, and shall be obedient to the military orders of their instructor. The roll shall be regularly called over by him at the hour of meeting ; absences & insubordinations shall be noted ; and the list of delinquents shall be delivered to the Chairman of the Faculty, to be animadverted on by the Faculty, and such minor punishments imposed as each case shall, in their discretion, require. The school of Modern Languages shall be pretermitted on the days of actual military exercise.

Substitutes in the form of arms to be provided by the Proctor.

2. Substitutes in the form of arms shall be provided by the Proctor, at the expense of the University ; they shall be distinguished by numbers, delivered out, received in, and deposited under the care and responsibility of the instructor, in a proper depository to be furnished him ; and all injuries to them by a student, shall be repaired at the expense of such student.

Work-shops to be provided.

3. Work-shops shall be provided, whenever convenient, at the expense of the University, where students, who choose, may exercise themselves in the use of tools, and such mechanical practices as it is convenient and useful for every person to understand, and occasionally to practise. These shops may be let, rent-free, to such skillful and orderly mechanics as shall be approved by the Faculty, on the condition that they will permit the use of their tools, instruments, and implements, within the shop, to such students as shall desire, and use the permission discreetly, and under a liability for any injury they may do them ; and on the further condition, if necessary, of such mechanics' receiving instruction gratis in the mechanical and philosophical principles of their art, so far as taught by any of the schools.

CHAPTER III.

DISCIPLINE, POLICE, &c.

Inattendance, inattention or misbehaviour in school, how punished.

1. Inattendance on school, inattention to the exercises prescribed, misbehaviour or indecorum in school, shall be subject to any of the minor punishments ; and the Professor of the school may singly reprove, or dismiss from the room during the day.

No student to appear in school with weapons ; Nor be covered without permission.

2. No student shall appear in school with a stick or any weapon ; nor, while in school, be covered without permission of the Professor, or use tobacco by snuffing, or chewing, or smoking, on pain of any of the minor punishments, at the discretion of the Faculty.

Use of tobacco in school prohibited. Weapons and gun powder, servants, horses and dogs prohibited.

3. No student shall, within the precincts of the University, introduce, keep or use weapons or arms of any kind, or gun powder ; nor keep a servant, horse, or dog.

Precincts, the limits of.

4. The precincts of the University are to be regarded as co-extensive with the lands owed by the University ; being one entire tract, consisting of several parcels, whereon the buildings are erected.

Disturbing noises, and firing a gun or pistol within precincts, prohibited.

5. No student shall admit any disturbing noises in his room, or make them any where within the precincts of the University, or fire a gun or pistol within the same, on pain of such minor sentence as the Faculty shall decree ; but the proper use of musical instruments shall be freely allowed in their rooms, and in that appropriated for instruction in music.

Festive entertainments without permission of Chairman, prohibited.

6. No student shall make any festive entertainment within the precincts of the University, nor contribute to, or be present at them, there or elsewhere, without the leave of the Chairman, on pain of a minor punishment. And as such entertainments are, for the most part, unfriendly to collegiate duties, they should be allowed with caution, and unlicensed indulgence in them should be vigilantly restrained.

7. The repetition of offences made liable to minor punishments, shall subject the student guilty thereof, to either minor or major punishments, or to dismissal, at the discretion of the Faculty.

The repetition of minor offences, how punished.

8. No student shall be absent from the precincts of the University, after night, without the leave of the Chairman, or of some Professor whose school he attends, unless on a visit to a respectable private family. And whoever offends herein, shall be subject to a minor or major punishment, according to the degree of his offence.

Absence from precincts, after night, unless on a visit to private family, prohibited.

9. No student, wherever resident, shall at any time visit any tavern or confectionary, without leave from the Chairman of the Faculty, or some Professor whose school he attends; and the violation of this enactment, shall subject the offender to a major or minor punishment, at the discretion of the Faculty. Perseverance in the habit of frequenting taverns or confectionaries, shall be punished with dismissal from the University, at least, and refusal to re-admit.

Students not to visit taverns or confectionaries.

Punishment for so doing.

10. If any student shall violate any of the enactments, requiring students to deposit their funds with the Patron, prescribing the uniform to be worn by them, prohibiting their contracting of debts, and regulating their expenses, he shall be liable to any of the punishments provided by the laws of the University.* Perseverance in habits of expense, shall be punished by dismissal from the University, at least, and refusal to re-admit.

Punishment for violation of enactments regarding deposit of funds, uniform, contracting debts, and expenses.

11. Public orations and public addresses delivered by students, affecting in some degree the reputation of the institution, and interfering with more regular academic pursuits, must be, at all times, subject to the control of the Faculty. No student, therefore, shall deliver any public oration, or public address, written or ex tempore, without leave of the Faculty, on pain of any of the minor or major punishments.

Public orations or addresses not to be delivered without leave of Faculty.

12. No student, without leave of the Faculty, shall attend any teacher out of the University, for the purpose of learning any thing taught in any of the schools of the University; and if any offend herein, he shall be liable to any of the minor or major punishments.

Nor teacher out of University attend ed.

* For the enactments on these subjects, see Chap. 4.

No student shall leave any class or University, without permission of the Faculty. Offences herein, how punished.

13. No student, without permission of the Faculty, shall leave any class which he may have entered, or leave the University, before the end of the session. And if any shall offend herein, he shall be subject to any of the major or minor punishments, or may be refused admission into the University at the next session, at the discretion of the Faculty. But, a student desirous to leave the University, and having permission from his parent or guardian, may be allowed to do so, by the Chairman, with the written concurrence of all the Professors he attends, if it be inconvenient to consult the Faculty.

Students guilty of habitual delinquency, idleness or other bad habits, how to be dealt with.

14. If any student shall, in the opinion of the Faculty, from habitual delinquency in all or any of his classes, or from habitual idleness or inattention, or from any other bad habits, be not fulfilling the purposes for which he ought to have come to the institution, and be not likely to fulfil them, and his parent or guardian do not withdraw him, after having received timely notice thereof, the Faculty may dismiss him from the University. But they shall not exercise this power, until they shall have given the student written information of the objections to his conduct, and have afforded him an opportunity of explanation and defence. Their order of dismissal shall assign the cause thereof, shall be communicated to the parent or guardian, and laid before the Visitors at their next meeting.

Duty of Professors to discover and prevent offences.

15. The Professors being charged with the execution of the laws of the University, it becomes their duty to pursue proper means to discover and prevent offences. Respect from the student to the Professor being at all times due, it is more especially so, when the Professor is engaged in this duty. Such respect, therefore, is solemnly enjoined on every student; and it is declared and enacted, that if any student refuse his name to a Professor, or being required by him to stop, shall fail to do so, or shall resist or resent the interposition of a Professor made for the purpose of preventing offences committed in his presence, or shall be guilty of any disrespect to a Professor, such student, his advisers, aiders and abettors, shall be deemed insubordinate, and shall be liable to any of the minor or major punishments, according to the degree of his offence.

Respect to Professor while engaged in this duty enjoined. Student refusing his name, &c. how punished.

16. When a Professor knocks at the door of a student's room, any person being within, and announces himself, it shall be opened, on pain of a minor or major punishment; and the Professor may, if refused, have the door broken open ; and the expenses of repair shall be levied on the students within.

17. Contumacy shall be liable to any of the major punishments. Contumacy how punished.

18. Any student violating any lawful order of the Chairman, or subordinate to any lawful sentence pronounced by him, shall be deemed guilty of contumacy, and punished accordingly. Violation of any order of Chairman contumacy.

19. Habits of expense, of dissoluteness, of dissipation, of profane swearing, or of playing at games of chance, in which description is included the game of backgammon, being obstructive to the acquisition of science by the student himself, and injurious, by example, to others, shall be subject to any of the punishments prescribed by the laws of the University, at the discretion of the Faculty ; and every student who shall, within the precincts, introduce, keep or use, any spirituous or vinous liquors, or any cards, dice, or other implements of gaming, shall be subject to the like punishment. Habits of expensive gaming, &c, how punished.

20. Drunkenness or gaming by any student, may be punished by a minor or major punishment ; though it be the first offence of which he shall have been convicted. Vinous and spirituous liquors and implements of gaming prohibited

21. Riotous, disorderly, intemperate or indecent conduct of any student, shall be punished by interdiction of residence within the precincts, or by any of the major or minor punishments, at the discretion of the Faculty ; and every occupant of a dormitory permitting these offences therein, shall be subject to any minor punishment, at the discretion of the Faculty. Riotous conduct, how punished.

22. No student shall appear out of his dormitory masked or disguised in any manner whatever, which may render the recognition of his person more difficult, on pain of suspension or expulsion by the Faculty. Student appearing masked or disguised, how punished.

23. Any combination of students to do an unlawful act, shall subject the offenders to any of the punishments, at the discretion of the Faculty. Combinations to do an unlawful act, punishable.

24. The youth of the country cannot learn too early to respect the laws. To evade the process of the courts necessary to the administration of justice, is a high contempt of those laws, and indicates a disposition to insubordination, which requires the decided reprehension of the Board. Any student, therefore, in any manner, evading the Evasion of process of courts, punishable. process of the courts, shall be liable to any of the penalties prescribed by the enactments of the University.

Offences against the laws of the land left to cognizance of the civil magistrate; or punished by the Faculty. 25. Offences against the laws of the land may be left to the cognizance of the civil magistrate, if claimed by him ; or may be subjected by the Faculty to any of the punishments permitted by the enactments ; and this, whether the civil magistrate shall have taken cognizance of them or not.

Duelling, &c. punished by expulsion. 26. Every student engaged in a duel or combat with weapons which may inflict death, either by fighting, or sending, or accepting a challenge to fight, or bearing such challenge, or being second to either of the principals in such duel, or by being accessory to such duel or challenge by aiding, assisting or encouraging it, shall be liable to instant expulsion from the University, not remissible by the Faculty. And it shall be the duty of the Proctor to give information thereof to the civil authority, that the parties may be dealt with according to law.

Proctor to give information thereof to the civil authority. Testimony by a student to be voluntary, and not on oath. 27. When testimony is required from a student, it shall be voluntary and not on oath, and the obligation to give it, shall be left to his own sense of right.

Major punishments. 28. Punishment for major offences, shall be expulsion, temporary suspension, or interdiction of residence and appearance within the precincts of the University. The minor punishments shall be reproof by a Professor, or by the Chairman, privately, or in presence of the school of the offender, or of all the schools ; dismissal from the school room for the day ; and insubordination to these sentences shall be deemed and punished as contumacy.

Expulsion not final until approved by the Visitors. 29. Sentences of expulsion from the University (except in case of challenge or combat with arms) shall not be final, until approved by the Board of Visitors ; or, when they are not in session, by a majority of them separately consulted. But residence within the precincts, and attendance on the schools, may be suspended in the mean time.

Expelled students inhibited from the precincts, &c. 30. Students heretofore or hereafter expelled from the University, shall be absolutely inhibited from coming within the precincts, for the period of five years after such expulsion, unless by leave of the Chairman in the manner prescribed by law. And if any such expelled student shall come within the precincts in violation of this enactment, it shall be the duty of the Proctor to warn him off, and if he do not depart, or afterwards returns, the Proctor shall consult with the attorney employed for the University, and take such measures as the law will allow for punishing the offence and preventing its repetition. No student shall, for the time abovespecified, admit any student into his dormitory, who has been or shall be expelled from the institution; nor shall he admit any student who has been or shall be dismissed or suspended from it, during the continuance of such dismissal or suspension; under pain of such punishment as the Faculty may choose to direct.

Students expelled, suspended or dismissed not to be admitted into the dormitories.

31. No suspended student shall be permitted to reside within five miles of the University, during the continuance of such suspension, unless with the consent of the Faculty.

Suspended students not to reside within five miles of the University.

32. Dismissed students shall be interdicted from the precincts in the same manner as suspended students; and whenever a student shall be expelled, dismissed, or suspended from the University, it shall be a part of his sentence that he is interdicted from the precincts; and that part shall be communicated to him in writing.

Dismissed students interdicted from the precincts

33. Students who have been expelled, suspended or dismissed, may hereafter, be permitted to come within the precincts of the University, on the written permission of the Chairman, for a stated time, for good cause shewn.

Leave may be given by Chairman.

34. The celebration of the Anniversary of Independence, and of Washington's birth day, in a manner becoming a literary institution, is recommended to the Professors and students, as a duty worthy of constant observance. But no festivities which naturally lead to excess, are admissible on the occasion. Public dinners, therefore, are strictly prohibited; though a ball, or other evening party, attended by Professors and students, having its pleasures chastened by the company of ladies, is allowed, under such regulations as the Faculty may prescribe.

Enactment regulating the celebration of Anniversary.

35. The celebration most appropriate to a University, must blend literature and science with the indulgence of patriotic feeling. The Board therefore recommend for the fourth of July, the reading of the Declaration of Independence, with suitable solemnities; orations on the day and on other subjects, historical, literary and scientific, to be spoken or read, under the regulation of the Faculty. The subjects of composition shall be given to the students, a suitable time before hand ; and each student, who pleases, may compose an oration, or write a discourse, on such as he may select. These compositions, with the name of the author sealed, shall be submitted to the Faculty, for their inspection and criticism. Such as are deemed proper to be publicly read or spoken, shall have their seals broken, and be returned to their authors, for the purpose of being read or spoken ; and those that may not be deemed proper for public exhibition, shall be returned to their authors, with the seals unbroken. For the twenty-second of February, they recommend, under similar regulations, compositions on subjects illustrating the life and character of Washington, and other suitable subjects, to be publicly read or spoken, as may be deemed proper by the Faculty.

Twenty-second of February.

Bell to be rung at dawn.
Students to rise at this signal.
Their rooms to be put in order by sunrise.
The Faculty may extend the time.

Proctor shall inspect dormitories.
Shall report breaches of enactment to Chairman.

Violations by students and Hotel-keepers, how punished.

Proctor to keep drains free from obstructions, &c.

Professors & Hotel-keepers responsible for cleanliness of their tenements.

To be fined for failure.

36. The bell shall be rung every morning, throughout the session, at dawn. The students shall rise at this signal, and dress themselves without delay. Their rooms shall be cleaned and set in order, and they prepared for business, at sun-rise. The Faculty, however, may extend the time in the morning for cleaning the dormitories of the students ; but not later than the breakfast hour. At sunrise, or at the expiration of the time allowed by the Faculty, the Proctor shall, at least once a week, inspect the dormitories and see that they are in proper order. The Proctor shall scrupulously report all breaches of this enactment to the Chairman : and any student who shall violate it, shall be subject to any of the minor or major punishments. Any Hotel-keeper who shall fail to have the room of a student put in order, according to the provisions of this enactment, shall be subject to a fine not exceeding five dollars for each offence, to be assessed by the Faculty, and retained out of the student's board.

37. The Proctor is required to keep the drains in the grounds of the University always free from obstruction, and to construct such others as the Executive Committee may direct.

38. The Professors and Hotel-keepers shall be responsible for the cleanliness of their tenements, and the grounds in their occupation respectively ; and shall cause the sweepings and offal from them to be daily deposited in the receptacles prepared for that purpose, at such hour in the day as shall be appointed by the Proctor. If any of them fail herein, he shall be fined for each offence at the discretion of the Faculty, in a sum not exceeding two dollars, to be collected by the Proctor and paid to the Bursar, for the benefit of the University.

The Proctor shall inspect their tenements and grounds once a week, and report all delinquencies to the Chairman of the Faculty.

Proctor shall inspect tenements once a week, &c.

39. The tenement of the Hotel-keeper, within the true intent and meaning of this enactment, shall be held to embrace not only the hotel and grounds in his immediate possession, but all such dormitories as shall have been assigned to his hotel, for the accommodation of his boarders, the back yards attached to such dormitories, and the arcades in front thereof and in front of his hotel.

Extent of Hotel-keeper's tenement.

40. All damage done to instruments, books, buildings, or other property of the University, by any student, shall be made good at his expense; and wilful injury to any tree, shrub, or other plant, within the precincts, shall be punished by fine not exceeding ten dollars, at the discretion of the Faculty.

Damage to property of University, how repaired.

41. The Faculty shall have the power, for offensive conduct, of removing the occupant from any dormitory.

Faculty may remove occupant from dormitory.

42. Hacks and other carriages let on hire, shall be admitted within the precincts of the University, only under such regulations as shall be prescribed by the Faculty.

Hacks, &c. on what terms admitted within precincts.

43. The Faculty shall have power, from time to time, to prescribe regulations of police, not inconsistent with the laws of the land, or the enactments of this Board; which regulations shall be submitted to the Visitors, at their next succeeding meeting, and shall be in force till disapproved by the Visitors, or repealed by the Faculty.*

Faculty may prescribe regulations of Police.

* The most important regulations of the Faculty, will be found in an Appendix.

CHAPTER IIII.

RESIDENCE, EXPENSES, &c.

Students not to board out the University, but in family of parent, &c. Except students above the age of twenty.

1. No student shall be permitted to board or lodge out of the precincts of the University, unless in the family of his parent or guardian, or of some particular friend approved by the Faculty. Except, that students above the age of twenty years, proving their ages to the satisfaction of the Faculty, may reside out of the precincts, in such private boarding houses as the Faculty may approve.

Hotel and dormitory to be assigned to student by the Proctor.

2. The student shall not choose his quarters at pleasure ; but his hotel and dormitory shall be assigned him by the Proctor, under the control of the Faculty : and they shall be so distributed among the different hotels, as to preserve equality of numbers at each, as nearly as convenient. In this assignment, the wishes of the student will be respected, as far as may comport with equality of numbers at the hotels, and fitness of residence in the dormitories : but students, being once located, must not be compelled to change their residence for the mere purpose of equality, and shall not be allowed to change either their hotels or dormitories, without the consent of the proper authority.

Proctor to assign dormitories to hotels.

3. The Proctor, under the direction of the Chairman, shall assign the dormitories to the respective hotels, from time to time, as may be found expedient ; and shall give notice of such assignment to the Hotel-keeper.

Student authoris-

4. If an Hotel-keeper be inattentive to the cleanliness of the dor-

- mitories, or shall fail in his duty to furnish proper fare, the Faculty may authorise the student to change his hotel. ed to change his hotel, when.
5. A student may be permitted to change his dormitory by the Chairman, for good cause shewn. To change his dormitory, when.
6. Every student shall be required to have his name painted on the door of his dormitory. Name of student to be painted on his door.
7. Each student who may reside without the precincts, shall be required to register his place of residence with the Proctor. Residence of non-resident student to be registered with Proctor.
8. The keepers of hotels shall not furnish luxurious fare to their boarders : but the fare shall be plentiful, plain, of good and wholesome viands, neatly served and well dressed ; and, in all its details, conformable to such rules as the Faculty may prescribe, pursuant to this enactment. Description of fare to be provided by Hotel-keepers.
9. The Faculty are authorised and required, if they find it convenient, to prescribe the details of the fare at the hotels, in the spirit of this enactment ; assuring, as far as may be, uniformity throughout the institution. Faculty may prescribe the details of fare.
10. The Hotel-keepers shall furnish the students with diet, bedding and furniture for their dormitories, and washing ; also proper attendance of servants for domestic and menial duties : the details of all which shall be regulated by the Faculty. For all these, they shall receive at the rate of one hundred dollars, for the session, payable monthly. Students entering the University after the commencement of the session, shall pay board only for the time unexpired, at the yearly rate. Supplies to be furnished by Hotel-keepers.
11. If any Hotel-keeper shall fail to comply with the rules prescribed by this enactment, or by the Faculty, there shall be such deduction made from the amount of board allowed him, as the Faculty shall judge proper. Price of board.
12. The Proctor shall superintend the hotels, shall inspect their tables and the furnishment of the dormitories, at least once a month, and whenever else he shall be required, by any Hotel-keeper or boarder, or by the Faculty ; and he shall regularly report to the Faculty all deficiencies and improprieties which he may observe, or of which he may be informed. To be paid for what time.
13. Whenever the washing of any student shall not be done by the Hotel-keeper in a proper manner, the Faculty may authorise the Penalty on Hotel-keepers failing to comply with the rules, &c.
14. The Proctor shall superintend the hotels, shall inspect their tables, and whenever else he shall be required, by any Hotel-keeper or boarder, or by the Faculty ; and he shall regularly report to the Faculty all deficiencies and improprieties which he may observe, or of which he may be informed. 15. Whenever the washing of any student shall not be done by the Hotel-keeper in a proper manner, the Faculty may authorise the And report deficiencies to the Faculty.
16. Whenever the washing of any student shall not be done by the Hotel-keeper in a proper manner, the Faculty may authorise the Students to have their washing done by another, when not properly student to have it done by another, and deduct the price thereof done.

Hotel-keepers to be indemnified for injuries to furniture.

14. To indemnify the Hotel-keepers against all injuries to their furniture proceeding from the students, the Proctor, whenever required by the Hotel-keeper, shall assess a fair compensation for any such injury, subject, however, to the final judgment of the Faculty, on an appeal to them by either party: and on his warrant to that effect, drawn on the Patron, the latter shall retain the sum so assessed, out of the pocket money of the student in his hands; or, if there be no pocket money, then out of such other money of the student as is not otherwise specially appropriated, and shall pay it over to the Hotel-keeper.

The Proctor to furnish the students with fuel and candles.

15. The Proctor shall furnish the students with fuel and candles, at prime cost and charges, adding only five per cent thereon, as a compensation for his risk and trouble. Supplies of these articles are to be purchased by him, on the best terms, in large quantities, at the most convenient seasons; and he shall deliver them to the students at their respective dormitories, the wood sawed in proper lengths for their fire places. The cost of this labor is to be added to the original cost of the article, and charged to the student. A reasonable sum, to be approved by the Faculty, is also to be added to the original cost of the wood, to compensate for shrinkage. He shall keep a regular account of the supplies to each student, the amount of which, on his rendering such account to the Patron, shall be paid him by the Patron, out of the funds of the student in his hands.—To enable him more conveniently to execute the duties imposed on him by this enactment, a fit wood-yard may be provided at the expense of the University, under the direction of the Executive Committee.

Shall keep an account of supplies to each student.

To be paid him by the Patron.

A wood yard to be provided.

Price of board in hotels;

16. No keeper of any of the hotels of the University, shall require or receive more than one hundred dollars for dieting any student during the session of ten months and a half, and for furnishing him with bedding and furniture for his dormitory, washing, and proper attendance of servants; nor shall any person boarding elsewhere than with his parents, in any house, and using wine or ardent spirits, mixed or unmixed, within such house, or its tenements, or paying more than one hundred and twenty dollars for diet, lodging, and other off-ces and accommodations of the house and tenement, during a like term, be admitted to any school of the University.

And of non-resident students.

17. The dormitories shall be occupied by two students each, if necessary, and no more, at sixteen dollars yearly rent, to be paid to the Patron, one half by each occupant, or the whole by one, if there be only one; and every student, within the same term, shall pay to the Patron, also, for the University, fifteen dollars, annually, for his participation in the use of the public apartments, during the session. No deduction shall be made from these charges, on account of the student's not entering at the commencement of the session.

Rent of dormitory and public buildings.

18. When any student shall leave the University, by permission of the Faculty, on account of ill health, or shall die before the end of the session, the Proctor shall return to him, his parent, guardian, or proper representative, a proportion of the rent which he shall have paid for his dormitory and the use of the public rooms, bearing the same ratio to the whole amount of rent paid, that the residue of the session after his removal or death, bears to the whole session.

When to be refunded.

19. Every student shall pay to the Professor whom he attends, if he attends but one, fifty dollars for the session of ten months and a half; if two, thirty dollars each; if three or more, twenty-five dollars each. He shall, thereupon, be entitled to attend all the classes of the Professors, whose schools he joins.

Professors' fees.

20. Any student wishing to attend the class of Materia Medica, in the school of Chemistry and Materia Medica, of Physiology, or of Medical Jurisprudence, in the school of Medicine, or of Government and General Politics, in the school of Law, shall be allowed to do so, on the payment of a fee of fifteen dollars, each. The fees above prescribed shall be paid, at whatever period of the session the student may enter.

Fees for attending particular classes.

21. When a student shall attend any class of a Professor, for which a fee of fifteen dollars is allowed, and shall, at the same time, attend one other Professor, to whom a full fee is allowed, that fee shall be forty-five dollars; if he attend two or more such classes, paying fifteen dollars to each, and one Professor receiving a full fee—or one class paying fifteen dollars, and two Professors receiving a full fee—the full fee to the Professor, in each of these cases, shall be thirty dollars; if he attend two or more classes, paying to each fifteen dollars, and two Professors receiving a full fee, the full fee to each of these Professors shall be twenty-five dollars. In all other cases, the fees shall be as at present prescribed; and no Professor shall receive from a student more than fifteen dollars, if such student attend only the class in his school, for which the fee of fifteen dollars is prescribed; nor shall any Professor, unless for good cause, and with the assent of the Faculty, permit a student who shall have paid the full fee for his school, to limit his studies to the class for which a fee of fifteen dollars is prescribed, or to pretermitt the other studies of his school.

Student not permitted to limit his studies, &c. when he has paid the full fee.

22. In order that the expenses of the students may be restrained within that reasonable limit, which will make the benefits of this institution attainable by the greatest number; that their funds may be administered with the least interruption to their studies, and in the manner best calculated to subserve the purposes for which they are supplied; that their minds may not be unnecessarily withdrawn by the temptations of parade and pleasure, from the acquirement of literature and science, useful habits and honorable distinction; the Rector and Visitors do enact as follows:

Student to deposit all his funds with the Patron.

23. No student resident within the precincts, shall matriculate till he shall have deposited with the Patron, all the money, checks, bills, drafts and other available funds, which he shall have in his possession, or under his control, in any manner intended to defray his expenses while a student of the University, or on his return from thence to his residence. Nor shall he matriculate, till he shall have deposited a sum at least sufficient, after deducting the Patron's commission, to pay for the use of his dormitory and the public rooms, to pay the fees of the Professors whom he may design to attend, to pay three months board to his Hotel-keeper, and to purchase the text books and stationary which he may want at the commencement; and ten dollars, to cover contingent charges and assessments against him. If he deposit more than this, he shall designate the uses to which it is to be applied; whether for board, for clothing, for books and stationary, or for pocket money. Nor shall he matriculate, till he shall have produced to the Proctor the Patron's receipt for the deposit so made.

The amount to be deposited, in order to matriculate.

The Patron's receipt therefor to be delivered to Proctor.

And all the funds

24. In like manner, he shall deposit with the Patron all the funds which he shall receive, while a student of the University, for the purposes aforesaid ; designate the uses to which they are to be applied ; take the Patron's receipt therefor, and forthwith deliver it to the Proctor.

he shall receive while a student.

25. At the end of the first three months of the session, he shall deposit enough to pay his board and other expenses for the next three months ; and at the expiration of the second period of three months, he shall deposit enough to pay his board and other expenses for the residue of the session.

At what periods of the session, he shall make deposits for his board.

26. If the student fail to deposit in advance the two last instalments of his board, as herein required, or to produce the Patron's receipt to the Proctor ; and shall be in default for ten days ; the Proctor shall report him to the Chairman of the Faculty, that proper measures may be taken to compel performance, and if necessary to punish the default.

Measures to be taken on failure to deposit, &c.

27. No student resident out of the University shall matriculate till he shall have deposited with the Patron, funds sufficient, after deducting the Patron's commission, to pay the fees of the Professors whom he designs to attend, the sum charged him for the use of the public rooms ; and ten dollars, as a deposit to cover contingent charges, and assessments against him for injuries to the buildings and other property of the University. And if at any time this deposition shall be exhausted, before the end of the session, the use of the public rooms shall be denied him, till he shall have paid any balance of assessments against him, and have made such further deposit with the Patron, as the Chairman of the Faculty shall require.

Deposit to be made by non-resident students.

28. When the student shall deposit any funds with the Patron, he shall take from him a fair receipt, stating the amount deposited, the several purposes to which it is to be applied, and the amount appropriated to each purpose ; which receipt he shall deliver to the Proctor, to be by him carefully preserved. And, if the student desire it, the Patron shall, at the same time, give him a duplicate receipt for his own keeping.

Student shall take the Patron's receipt, to be delivered to the Proctor.

29. The expenses of the student resident in the University, shall be limited as follows :

Limitation of the expenses of resident students.

For board, the use of dormitory and public rooms, and tuition fees, as prescribed by other enactments.

For clothing, during the session, a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars.

For pocket money, during the session, not exceeding forty dollars.

For books and stationary, whatever the parent or guardian may think fit to allow.

For medicine and medical attendance, whatever may be necessary.

The limits here prescribed, shall, in no case, be exceeded ; unless, under special circumstances, the Faculty may allow it.

Proctor to address a letter to the parent or guardian of student on his matriculation.

30. As soon as any student shall have matriculated, it shall be the duty of the Proctor to address a letter to his parent or guardian, and send it by mail, informing him of the regulations of the University, relative to the expenditure of the student, apprising him particularly of the limitation upon each particular item of expenditure, and that all the funds of the student must pass through the hands of the Proctor. Printed circulars for this purpose shall be prepared at the expense of the University, according to a form to be prescribed by the Chairman of the Faculty.

Uniform prescribed.

31. The dress of the students, wherever resident, shall be uniform and plain. The coat, waistcoat and pantaloons, of cloth of a dark gray mixture, at a price not exceeding six dollars per yard. The coat shall be single-breasted ; with a standing cape, and skirts of a moderate length, with pocket flaps. The waistcoat shall be single-breasted, with a standing collar ; and the pantaloons, of the usual form. The buttons of each garment to be flat, and covered with the same cloth. The pantaloons and waistcoat of this dress may vary with the season : the latter of which, when required by the season, may be of white ; the former, of light brown cotton or linen. Shoes, and in no case boots, shall be worn by them. The neck-cloth shall be plain black, in the cold ; white, in the warm season. The hat round and black.

A surtout may be worn.

32. A surtout, of cloth of the color and price above prescribed, may be worn, but shall not be substituted on examinations and public exhibitions within the University, for the uniform coat first prescribed.

33. The form of the dress, in each article, shall be according to a Model of uniform model to be provided by the Proctor under the direction of the Executive Committee ; with conspicuous badges on the coats, such as they shall prescribe. In case of mourning, the customary badges may always be added.

34. The uniform thus prescribed, shall be strictly enforced, and shall be worn on all occasions, both within and without the precincts, when the student appears out of his room, except only that in warm weather, he may wear such light gown or coat within the precincts, as the Chairman may approve. Uniform to be strictly enforced.

35. No resident student shall contract any debt whatever : but, for every thing purchased by him, he shall forthwith pay the cash, or draw upon a fund in the hands of the Patron, adequate and applicable thereto. Resident student shall not contract debts.

36. Upon the final settlement of the Patron with each student about to leave the University, or having left it, the Patron shall take from him a written declaration to the following effect : Patron shall take from student, on settlement, a written declaration, &c.

I do hereby declare, that I have deposited with the Patron all the funds which have been received by me, or have been under my control, since I matriculated, according to the obvious intent and meaning of the enactments upon that subject ; and that I have received from him the sum of in full for the balance in his hands due to me. Its form.

37. If the student shall not have deposited all his funds, then the form of the declaration shall be altered, by adding an exception of the sum not so deposited ; and the Patron shall be entitled to a commission of four per cent. on the amount thereof. Alteration of form, in case the student shall not have deposited all his funds.

38. If the student shall refuse to give such written declaration, the Patron shall be entitled to demand and receive from him, the sum of twenty dollars, in addition to his commission on the funds deposited. Penalty on refusal to make such declaration.

39. In all cases in which the student shall fail to make the written Declaration above required, or in which it shall appear that he has not deposited the whole of his funds with the Patron, in pursuance of the enactments, the Patron shall report the fact to the Chairman of the Faculty, in order that it may be laid before the Faculty and Visitors' and otherwise properly animadverted upon. For such offence, the Patron to report the refusal to the Chairman. To be laid before the Faculty and Visitors. Measures to be taken thereupon.

student shall be liable to any of the punishments prescribed by the enactments, minor or major ; and the Chairman shall communicate the delinquency to the parent or guardian ; provided, however, that when a student shall have made a written declaration of the amount not deposited by him, no other penalty than the payment of the four per cent. above prescribed shall be inflicted.

CHAPTER V.

LIBRARY AND PUBLIC ROOMS.

The Library of the University shall be under the following regulations :

1. The books shall be kept in the upper room of the Rotunda. Where the books are to be kept.
2. The Library shall be under the care of a Librarian to be appointed by the Visitors ; who shall hold his office during their pleasure, and shall receive as a compensation for his services, a salary of two hundred and fifty dollars per annum, to be paid quarterly. To aid in the performance of his duties, he may employ any assistants approved by the Faculty. He shall be responsible for their conduct ; and they may be removed at any time, either by himself or by the Faculty. To be under the care of a Librarian.
His salary.
May employ assistants.
3. He shall have the use of a dormitory, free of rent, may attend any of the lectures in the University, without fee, and shall have free use of the books of the library ; but he shall carry none beyond the precincts of the University ; he shall take none from the library, the removal whereof is interdicted by the Faculty ; he shall return all taken out, within such time as the Faculty shall prescribe ; he shall be answerable for all damage, to the books, apartment, furniture or other property of the library, arising from any neglect or breach of his duty, and especially for all books taken from the library, contrary to rule. He shall have the use of a dormitory, may attend lectures, &c.
His responsibility.
4. For neglect of duty, or misconduct in office, his functions may be suspended by the Faculty, in the recess of the Board of Visitors, May be suspended for neglect, &c.

and the suspension may be continued till the Board shall re-instate him. During such suspension, his salary shall cease, unless otherwise ordered by the Board of Visitors.

Vacancies, how supplied.

5. All vacancies in the office of Librarian, occurring during the recess of the Visitors, whether by death, resignation, suspension or otherwise, shall be filled pro tempore, by an appointment by the Faculty, to continue not longer than the next meeting of the Visitors.

He shall keep a register of books taken out of library.

6. He shall keep a book in the library, in which he shall regularly enter every volume taken out, whether by a student, Professor, or himself; with the time when the same was taken, and when returned: so that it may be always known in whose hands every book is, and the time that it has been in the hands of the borrower.

Shall conform to all rules, &c.

7. The Librarian shall conform to all such rules as shall, from time to time, be prescribed for his conduct by the Board of Visitors, or by the Faculty, in pursuance of the authority vested in them by the Visitors; and it is especially enjoined on him, to be vigilant in preserving the books, room, and its furniture from all manner of injury: and, to this end, it shall be his duty to report to the proper authority, all breaches of the rules for the government of the library, committed by a student. He shall regularly debit the student with all fines and damages incurred by him, on account of the Library, and report the same to the Proctor, who shall charge the amount to the student, and inform the Patron thereof, by whom it shall be paid, out of the student's funds in his hands.

Shall see that all books are in place on the first day of meeting of the Visitors.

8. He shall see that every book belonging to the Library be in its place on the shelves, upon the first day of every meeting of the Visitors; and not removed during their sitting, unless by their permission; in order that the whole library may be subject to their inspection. And he is required to report to the Board of Visitors, at the commencement of every stated annual meeting, the names of all those, whether Professors or others, who may withhold books from the library in violation of the enactments.

Catalogues shall be kept.

9. Accurate catalogues of the books shall be kept by the Librarian, and copies thereof, from time to time, furnished to the Visitors, Professors, students and others, as shall be directed by the Faculty.

Proctor shall in-

10. At every meeting of the Board of Visitors, the whole library shall be carefully inspected, by the Proctor alone, or by the Proctor and such committee as the Board shall appoint, in order to ascertain whether each volume be in its place, and in proper preservation, and a written report of the condition of the library shall be made to the Board, by such inspectors.

inspect the whole library, when.

11. The Professors of the University shall, at all times, have free use of the books of the library, and free access thereto, in the confidence that they will not keep the books longer than while in actual and active use, and that they will leave with the Librarian a note of the books borrowed.

Professors shall have free use of the books.

12. Such books as, on account of their rarity, value, peculiar liability to injury, or for other good reason, ought not to be carried from the library, shall be designated by the Faculty; and being so designated, they shall not be lent to any one, or carried from the library by any person, except by special permission of the Faculty.

Particular books not to be removed from the library.

13. Students may borrow from the library all books not so prohibited, under the following regulations :

First. Before any book shall be lent to a student, the Faculty shall prescribe, by a general regulation, the authority on which books shall be delivered to a student by the Librarian, and the time within which they shall be returned; regulating that time with reference to the size of the volume lent, and to a diligent use of it by the student: and no book shall be lent by any other than the Librarian, or on any other authority than that so prescribed by the Faculty.

Students may borrow books not prohibited, under prescribed regulations.

Secondly. Books shall be lent to the student for the purpose of reading only, and not for the ordinary purpose of getting lessons in them as school books.

Thirdly. No student shall have more than three volumes in his possession at any time.

Fourthly. If any student deface, injure or lose any book of the Library, he shall pay one-half the value of the book, if defaced; double the value, if otherwise injured; and threefold, if lost; and shall be suspended from the privilege of borrowing, during such time as the Faculty shall adjudge: but if the book defaced, injured or lost, be a volume of a set, the case shall be referred to the Faculty, and the student may be compelled by their order, either to pay the fine, or to pay for the whole set, or replace it,—he taking the old, and being relieved from the fine. If the student object to any charge made against him by the Librarian, the Faculty shall decide.

Library open to students every day except Sunday.

14. The library shall be open to students every day, except Sunday, during such hours as the Faculty shall prescribe : but they shall be admitted within it, only for the purpose of consulting such books as they do not desire to carry from the library ; and not for the purpose of borrowing books, or returning those already borrowed. Borrowed books shall be delivered out, and received back, at some convenient place without the library, to be designated by the Faculty, within the hours when the library is open.

Students to obtain tickets of admission.

15. Students desiring to enter the library for the purpose of consulting books therein, shall obtain tickets of admission, in such manner as the Faculty shall prescribe. The numbers to be admitted at any one time, shall be so limited as to secure order : such admissions shall be only within the regular hours for keeping open the library, and shall always be in presence of the Librarian or one of his assistants : while so admitted, the student shall observe perfect order and decorum, shall preserve silence, shall abstain from injury, either to the books, the building, or the furniture, and he shall take no book from its shelf. Of any book that he shall wish to consult, he shall furnish a memorandum to the Librarian or his assistant ; and the Librarian or his assistant shall place the book on the table provided for that purpose, for the use of the student, and shall return it to its place, when the student has done with it.

Shall furnish a memorandum to the Librarian of the book he wishes to consult.

Shall pay for damage or injury.

16. If any student, while in the library, shall do any damage to any book, or to the building, or furniture, or other property belonging to the University, he shall pay such damages as shall be assessed therefor by the Faculty ; and for this, or any other misconduct while in library, he shall be liable to such other punishment as the Board, in their discretion, may adjudge.

Strangers may visit the library.

17. Strangers whom the Librarian may be willing to attend, may visit the library at such hours, and in such numbers, as the Faculty may prescribe : but, to prevent derangement of the books, they are to take no book from the shelf, but in his presence. They may also be permitted to consult any book, to read in it, make notes or quotations from it, at the table, under such accommodations and arrangements as the Librarian shall prescribe, on his own responsibility.

18. The upper circular room of the Rotunda shall be preserved for a Library. The elliptical rooms on its middle floor, shall be used for annual examinations, for lectures in the different schools, and for religious worship, under the regulations, to be prescribed by law. The rooms in the basement story of the Rotunda shall be one of them for a chemical laboratory, and the others for any necessary purposes for which they may be adapted. Public rooms, how appropriated.

19. The two open apartments adjacent to the same story of the Rotunda, shall be appropriated to the gymnastic exercises and games of the students ; among which shall be reckoned military exercises.

20. The small room on the first floor of the Rotunda, shall be fitted for the reception of the natural and artificial curiosities, given to the University by the late venerable Rector ; and they shall be there suitably arranged for preservation and exhibition. The care and custody of this apartment shall, for the present, be confided to the Librarian, under such regulations as the Faculty may prescribe. Room for the reception of Mr. Jefferson's donation.

APPENDIX.

The following enactment of the Visitors, was accidentally omitted in its proper place, in the first chapter.

Penalty on Proctor for violation of duty.

If the Proctor shall neglect or violate any duty prescribed to him by the laws of the University, besides being liable to an action on his bond, he shall pay to the Bursar, for the benefit of the University, a fine, not exceeding twenty dollars, for any one offence, to be assessed by the Faculty.

REGULATIONS OF THE FACULTY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA.

The use of musical instruments, when interdicted.

The use of musical instruments is interdicted, during lecture hours and after ten at night, as well as on Sundays.

Insult to officers, &c. how punished.

Any student who shall insult an Hotel-keeper or other officer, for preferring a complaint to the Faculty, shall be visited with the severest punishments permitted by the enactments.

Leave to reside within the University during vacation, how obtained.

During any vacation, none who were students, or intend to become so, shall be permitted to reside within the University, without permission from the Chairman, and without pledging himself to conform to the rules and regulations of the University.

Regulations respecting leave of absence.

It shall be the duty of any student applying for leave to absent himself from the University, according to the rule prescribed in the enactments (page 38) to state the period for which leave is asked ;

and any student exceeding the period for which such leave was granted, and not applying in due time, by letter to the Chairman, for an extension of leave, shall, unless satisfactory reasons to the contrary are assigned, be considered as absent without leave, and be immediately proceeded with accordingly.

A student who has graduated in any of the schools of the University, may be allowed, with the permission of the Professor of such school, to attend the lectures and other exercises therein, gratuitously, and shall not be required to undergo the public examination in that school.

A graduate in any school may attend lectures gratuitously.

The Faculty will not, but upon occasions of strong necessity, entertain applications for leave to quit the University, at the time of the public examinations, and any such applications when proceeding from parents or guardians must be made directly from them to the Faculty.

Leave of absence at time of public examination.

A student shall be allowed one month from the time of his matriculation, to enter additional classes on the same terms as if he had entered them at first.

One month allowed for entering additional classes.

As a general rule by which the attainments necessary for graduation in the several schools are to be estimated, it is resolved, that diplomas shall not be given for less proficiency than such as it would ordinarily require an attentive student, of good talents, two years to attain. The Hotel-keepers shall furnish the students with clean sheets and pillow-cases at least once a fortnight, and with clean towels at least twice a week.

Attainments required for graduation.

Hotel-keepers to furnish clean sheets and pillow-cases once a fortnight.

It shall be the duty of the Hotel-keepers to have the dormitories under their charge washed out at least once a fortnight.

Dormitories to be washed out once a fortnight.

It shall be also their duty to visit the dormitories under their charge themselves, or to have them regularly inspected by some agent approved by the Chairman, not less frequently than once a week, for the purpose of seeing that the servants do their duty, and that the comforts of the students are properly attended to.

To be visited by Hotel-keepers once a week.

The Hotel-keepers are required to furnish a list of such of their boarders as are absent from breakfast, and of those who appear at breakfast, half an hour after the bell has been rung.

Boarders absent from breakfast to be reported.

The Proctor is required to make a monthly report to the Chairman of the Faculty, of the state of the dormitories, hotels and public build-

Proctor to report to Chairman, monthly, the state of dormitories, &c. ings, and of any matters relating to the students or Hotel-keepers which may be worthy of being noticed. This report to be laid, by the Chairman, at each monthly meeting, before the Faculty.
